An Activity Book of Basic Lessons for Severe Reading and Spelling Disability

After trying to help a large group of severe 'dyslexics' through the terrible 'maze' and vagaries of English spelling for many years, and having studied the various Spelling Manuals on the market, Mary Manning-Thomas began to realise the need for a much more basic set of useful words for pupils themselves to have for reference.

Manning-Thomas' message is simple, there's no easy fix for dyslexics but this book comprises of word lists and exercises that have helped both children and adults with whom Manning-Thomas has come into contact over a period of 60 years. Whether used in the home, school or learning support unit, this book will help give dyslexics strong and simple tools to help find their way through the complexities of the English language.

The circus would visit the city on Thursday.
The cinema had a circular ceiling.
We must not cycle through the civic car park.
They were not certain that the circle was complete.

The citizens went to the citadel.
We should be civil to one another.
