The Fox and the Moon is a rollicking adventure about a wily fox who fits very happily into the busy life of the town – scavenging for food and sleeping rough in old cardboard boxes.

One day, he makes the mistake of raiding a dustbin that is just too big to escape from. He is swept away in a lorry to a dumping ground in the middle of the country and a whole new life begins.

A beautifully crafted book about the joys of getting back to nature!

LIZ GRAHAM-YOOLL is as well-known for her paintings as she is for her children's books. She lives and paints with her balloon-flying husband in Italy.

He sniffed the cold air with his sharp little nose.
"What a good smell," he said. "I'd like one of those!"

He traced it to a yard, with a restaurant beside,
and saw a huge trash can, with his dinner inside.

It was quiet and dark, but the container was large,
"Now how do I get in there?" he asked with a bark.

He circled around and sniffed the tall can.
"If I want to get in there, I must think of a plan."
